

SUGGESTIONS FOR YOUR 2018/19 WINTER HOLIDAY IN EBENSEE AM TRAUNSEE

(Subject to misprints and changes)

 Cable car ride up the Feuerkogel mountain (475–1,585 m)

In a matter of minutes, the cable car will transport you up to the heights of the Feuerkogel plateau, where a skiers' paradise opens out before you. Accessible thanks to its seven lift systems, including the 8-person gondola lift and 6-person chair lift, the ski resort is suitable for both beginners and the more advanced. The Feuerkogel plateau is particularly beloved by families with children. Well-prepared slopes, captivating panoramic views of the Salzkammergut's snow-clad mountains and lakes, skiing and snowboarding courses for children and adults as well as first-class equipment hire, avalanche safety and a downhill run for experienced skiers (unprepared, a memorable experience in suitable snow conditions and particularly in powdered snow) mark this resort apart.

Special feature: Guests can look forward to an exciting winter activity programme from outdoor specialists Capricorn Adventures, complete with snowshoe hiking, igloo building and winter trekking. NEW: From the 2015/16 winter season, 46 snow canons have guaranteed snow on the slopes!

 Public indoor pool

With a sauna, solarium, salt-water and aroma steam room, water shiatsu and water temperatures of around 30°C, the indoor pool certainly warms things up on a cold day. In addition to the conventional swimming pool (8 x 20 m), there is also a toddler pool for the little ones.

 Visit the remarkable nativity scene exhibition

Museum.Ebensee offers a rather unusual attraction: every day from 26 December 2018 to 2 February 2019, visitors can marvel at its special nativity exhibition, featuring large Ebensee landscape scenes and some very old, never-before-displayed models. An exhibition of the illuminated headgear for the traditional, regional Glöcklerlauf Twelfth Night procession is also open for viewing on the top floor. Programmes that also list all the private nativity scene exhibitors are available free of charge from the Tourist Office.

 Lakeside winter walks: Offensee and the Langbathseen

Lake Offensee enjoys a delightful location at the foot of the Totes Gebirge mountain range and is also a conservation area. A well-maintained hiking trail runs around its shore; coupled with its charming winter landscape and stunning mountain backdrop, it's a wonderful destination for an excursion. The Vorderer und Hinterer Langbathseen are likewise beautifully situated Alpine lakes. Both are protected areas and well worth visiting (hiking takes place on the right-hand shore – the left is used by cross-country skiers). These tributary valleys are not served by public buses, so they can only be reached by car or taxi.

 Ice skating

When the Vorderer Langbathsee and the Offensee freeze over (possible from mid January to mid February), it's time to get your skates on. If the ice conditions are good and there's no snow, you can glide across virtually the whole surface of these lakes. But take care: setting foot on the ice is entirely at your own risk. If the outside temperature gets too warm, you can always head over to the artificial ice rink in Gmunden.

 Ice stock sport

Ice permitting, you can also try out this Alpine version of curling on the Vorderer Langbathsee and the Offensee.

 Cross-country skiing

Take advantage of the 8 or 13 km groomed trail on the left-hand shore of the Vorderer and Hinterer Langbathseen, leading to the Landgasthof Kreh country inn, another point of access onto the trail.

 Sledding with a team of huskies

Bernd and Christa Spiessberger and their dogs can be found in the meadows by the wintry Lake Offensee. They offer guests a variety of options by prior arrangement (please book well in advance): husky adventure days, husky hikes, husky sledding and husky skijoring. A one-of-a-kind experience in splendid natural surroundings.

 Ski tours and snowshoe hiking

The magnificent mountain world surrounding Ebensee also offers some great opportunities for exciting ski tours and snowshoe hikes. Particularly attractive options are available in the Hölleengebirge and on the Feuerkogel plateau, where there are six marked trails, and, from 7 February 2018, a guided snowshoe adventure every Wednesday. The Tourist Office is happy to provide a range of suggestions.

 Salzkammergut Winter Card

Around 68 partner companies in the region, listed in a separate brochure, offer adults discounts of up to 25% on admission and travel tickets. The Card costs €4.90 and is valid for the duration of your stay from 1 November to 30 April. Even better, it's free for guests staying three or more nights in the Traunsee area. The Salzkammergut Card is available from the Ebensee Tourist Office.

 Visiting Ebensee's museums

There are three museums in Ebensee: the MUSEUM.EBENSEE, the Zeitgeschichte-Museum (Museum of Contemporary History) and the Naturmuseum (Natural History Museum). Each boasts an array of fascinating objects, documents, photographs, original artefacts and much more besides. These museums offer a real experience and are definitely well worth the visit!

 Cinema

The local cinema presents a diverse programme of films and concerts. It's open on Thursdays, Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays, occasionally also on Tuesdays.

 Visiting the lending library

The public parish and community library is housed in the Rathaus (Town Hall), where a large selection of books awaits. DVDs can also be rented out and every Friday it hosts a toy library for children.

 Winter hike to the Rindbach Waterfall

On winter days, you can also take a walk along the Rindbach to the Rindbach Waterfall (walking time approx. 30 minutes from the car park). There are beautiful ice formations to be seen when the temperatures fall.

 Visit the Catholic parish church and walk to the Kalvarienberg Chapel

A visit to the 1729 baroque parish church, dedicated to St Joseph, is well worth your while, as is a climb up to the Kalvarienberg Chapel, with its outstanding wood carvings accompanying the Stations of the Cross. A gorgeous view of Ebensee and Traunsee rewards you at the chapel.

 Day trips

Its central location in the Salzkammergut region makes Ebensee an ideal base for quick and easy excursions to all sorts of destinations in Austria.

DISTANCES:	Bad Ischl	17 km	Gmunden	17 km
	Linz	85 km	Vienna	240 km
	Salzburg	85 km

All ski centres in the Salzkammergut region within a 50 km radius can be reached in no time.

 Get involved in the rich programme of events

Dozens of events are held here, especially in the winter months. Whether Christmas markets, traditional folk events, concerts, nativity scene exhibitions, balls or other society or dance events, there is always something going on in Ebensee.

CHRISTMAS IN EBENSEE from 1 December 2018 to 6 January 2019

Whether Christmas markets, Ebensee nativity scenes, church festivals or the traditional Glöcklerlauf procession, Ebensee has a variety of cultural highlights on tap during the Advent and Christmas period. Its hallmark is its devotion to pure and authentic traditional customs, lovingly preserved by many an Ebensee resident. Separate Christmas events are also put on for the children. Thus, the community at the southern tip of Lake Traunsee may deservedly call itself the centre of Salzkammergut folk culture and tradition especially during this “most peaceful” time of the year. Please take a look at our calendar of events on pages 4 and 5.

EBENSEE CHRISTMAS MARKET

From 3 to 7 p.m. on 8 & 9 and 15 & 16 December 2018

This year, the welcoming Christmas market returns for another display of festive tradition. Entitled “Winter Customs”, Ebensee takes the Advent period as an opportunity to show visitors not only row upon row of enticing stalls, but also how traditional practices in the Traunsee community are kept alive and the craftsmanship that they require. Among the delights on display, you can therefore expect to see some local artisans presenting their work.

The market is situated on Marktgasse in the town centre.

EBENSEE KRIPPERLROAS from 25 December 2018 to 2 February 2019

Every Christmas, a strongly-rooted Ebensee tradition is played out: setting up Krippen or nativity scenes. Preparations often take weeks, as the scenes are carefully adorned with moss, sprigs of conifer, roots and ivy, and sometimes include up to 1,000 figures. The oldest models date back to the 18th century; some of the figures were even carved by sculptor Johann Georg Schwanthaler or one of his pupils. In general, there are two types: the oriental manger scene and the Ebensee landscape scene. Visitors can now go on a tour from scene to scene, called a Kripperlroas. From 26 December to 2 February, you can visit the nativity scene exhibition at Museum.Ebensee, which displays large landscape scenes and also boasts an exhibition of headgear from the Glöckler parade. From 25 December 2017 to 2 February 2018, approximately ten wonderful private scenes and the church nativity models can also be admired. A detailed map showing all the exhibitors plus visiting times is available free of charge from the Ebensee Tourist Office, where you can also get the dates for the guided Kripperlroas.

GLÖCKLERLAUF on 5 January 2019, 6 p.m.

One of the most eye-catching traditional events is the approximately 160-year-old Twelfth Night custom of the Ebensee Glöcklerlauf procession.

© reinhard hörmandinger

Ebensee is the heart and the origin of this custom, leading it to win UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage status in 2010. The idea behind the Glöcklerlauf is to attract the blessings of good spirits and drive away evil ones. The Glöcklerpassen (teams taking part in the procession) meet between 6 and 7 p.m. in the centre of town and then make their way through Ebensee's districts. The Glöckler wear headgear weighing up to 20 kg, plus large bells attached to leather belts. At 6 p.m. on the dot, a gun salute announces the start of the parade, which takes place whatever the weather. Those interested in how these artworks are made can visit the large Town Hall chamber on 5 January from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. to see the headwear of some of the participants. Museum.Ebensee offers a permanent Glöckler headwear exhibition during opening hours.

EBENSEE FASCHING from 2 to 6 March 2019

Joyous and carefree, clownish and chaotic – the Ebensee Fasching or carnival virtually defies description. Young or old, almost everyone joins in the frolics of the so-called “Ebensee National Holiday”.

It all starts with the official carnival opening, which heralds a string of dance events and masked balls over the following weeks, offering the chance for a knees-up and good entertainment.

On Fasching weekend itself, things really get going. The children's carnival parade takes place on the Saturday, while on the Sunday it's the adults' turn to take centre stage at the big Ebensee Fasching parade. Monday is the day for probably the most extraordinary procession of all – the Fetzenszug (Rag Parade) with its subsequent lively celebrations in local inns. The Fetzenszug is about 120 years old and was awarded UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage status in 2011.

After Ash Wednesday, when the carnival figure is ceremoniously burned on the banks of the River Traun, there is only one wish in mind, voiced in the first few lines of the Rag Parade March: “Faschingtag, Faschingtag, kimm na boid wieda!” (“Carnival, carnival, come back soon!”).
